

I am in complete support of a nation do-not-call list. It is so frustrating to receive constant calls from the same people during dinner or the early morning. Some of them are so dispicable that they hang up when the person the call is intended for does not answer. I understand people have to do their job, but they don't have to be so vicious and rude.